What is Bioenergetic Testing

Bioenergetic testing uses a computerized system to measure the energetic frequencies within the body. Many people are suffering from known or unknown health imbalances, which cause functional ailments within the body. When a functional imbalance occurs sometimes the dysfunction is not identified by conventional lab work or traditional pathological testing. Meanwhile, the patient continues to experience multiple symptoms.

Bioenergetic testing provides a novel approach which can detect and correct imbalances within the energetic body. The human body is electric. Everything is energy and all imbalances have a specific frequency. The Qest4 system scans for imbalances and seeks to correct them by using homeopathic imprints.
